

NEW NINE HOLES AT DORNICK HILL USED CHRISTMAS

Perry Maxwell's Sheep Helped Mother Nature in Getting Fairways and Green in Good Shape.

The new nine holes at Dornick Hills Club were used for the first time Christmas day when a number of enthusiastic golfers made up several four-somes and enjoyed the afternoon. All of the greens except number five have fine turf and have received their winter dressing of ground peanut hulls. The fairways of the new nine holes were nearly as good as those of the old.

All who sampled the new nine were loud in their praise of what the new nine will be when completed next summer. The addition of these holes makes the local course among the best in the southwest, and it will be in readiness for the state tournament which will be held here next summer.

The splendid condition is attributed to the flock of sheep which C. P. Maxwell has kept on the property for the past few years.

Plans for the addition to the club house have been completed. A new bathing pool will be constructed on the property, and will be completed in time for the early bathers. Local fans are optimistic for the success of the club.

The best round of golf played Christmas day was by M. H. Veal, the club professional, who shot a 38, allowing two putts for the number five green, which was not completed. The score by holes was: 4-4-4-3-5-5-4-4-5. This was said to be a fine exhibition of golf, as the course is in a rather unfinished condition. The best round of any of the amateurs was a 43, shot in the afternoon in a Scotch foursome.

The annual meeting of the members will be held January 22, 1924. Owing to the increased interest in the club a full attendance is expected at this meeting.
