

INCIDENTALLY, just the other day Perry Maxwell, Oklahoma's gift to world-famous golf course architects, passed through saying that his brother Dean is remodeling the Colonial course under his (Perry's) plans.

Perry laid out and built among others in Oklahoma, Twin Hills, Oklahoma City Country club, Southern Hills, Oakhurst and the country club at Tulsa, starting with Dornick Hills in Ardmore years ago on a dairy farm of his.

Anyone wishing to contact Perry may do so at the Augusta, Ga., National golf links, where the impending annual Master's tournament, sponsored by Bobby Jones, will be held. Perry shyly admitted that he has just changed the Augusta course, collaborating with Jones, moving tees and greens on five of the holes.
