

Two noted golf course magicians Architect Perry Maxwell and Dean Wood, have settled down in Fort Worth to spent the next year readying Colonial Golf Club for the 1941 National Open. No radical changes are planned, but the entire 18 holes will be retrapped to make one of the South's toughest courses a wee bit harder for the field.