

LOTS OF BA'BA'S AT DORNICK HILL CLUB

PERRY MAXWELL, PRESIDENT
OF COUNTRY CLUB, PUTS 136
SHROPSHIRE SHEEP TO GRAZE
ON THE GROUNDS.

The latest added beauty to the Dornick Hill Country club was installed late yesterday afternoon when Perry Maxwell, president of the club, acting in the role of the shepherd, minus the flute and crooked staff, came plodding down the highway behind a herd of 136 fine Shropshire sheep and turned them through the iron gate leading to the country club grounds. The black-faced mutton lend an added attractiveness to the general landscape, and no doubt will soon become great pets with the members. Mr. Maxwell owns a fine farm adjoining the club property and it is his intention to keep the sheep on the club grounds as they are required, to keep down the grass and weeds, thereby saving much manual labor in mowing grass and weeds.

Mr. Maxwell stated that he is in the market for all he could get, and promises to save the club a lot of expense in ground keep, besides, a sheep is so easily trained and so amenable to human persuasion that it would not be difficult to train one so that a caddy bag might be strapped to their fleecy backs, and they could act as caddy to the members.

Go out to the club, you members, and select your sheep early,—then go to work training him.
