

A proposal by Chairman Troy Chastain to pay $500 to Perry Maxwell, golf architect, for designing a number of holes at the Adams park golf course was held up, after Commissioner Gloer Hailey objected that the county could not afford such a payment unless the project produced enough revenue to pay for itself.