

Inspect New Course

Charter Members To Be Given Picnic Supper

Charter members of the new Prairie Dunes golf course in the sandhills northeast of Hutchinson will look over the difficult lies and satiny greens late this afternoon in company with the owners, architect and new professional.

The builders, W. D. P. Carey and Emerson Carey, Jr., will be hosts at a picnic supper after the preview party strolls over the course. Perry Maxwell, golf architect, will explain how he planned the course in the billowing sand dunes, and Ross Wilson, professional, will talk over some of the complex problems offered with impatient linksmen.

Wilson has been professional since 1924 at the Carey Lake club east of Hutchinson. Emerson Carey, Jr., said today no decision had been made as to the future of Carey Lake.

Membership roster of Prairie Dunes will be limited to 110 players, is virtually filled, Carey said.