

Perry Maxwell, an outstanding golf course architect—in fact, he generally is rated the country's leading designer of golf pastures—was in Austin a couple of weeks ago. Here at invitation of officials of the Austin Country club, Maxwell spent several days looking over proposed sites for location of a new course.