

Club Directors Are Pleased With Membership Results

The Odessa Country Club finance directors reported this morning that the re-opened membership movement for the taking in of an additional 50 members was progressing nicely.

The Odessa club layout was an original 18 hole affair, but was changed to fit the present nine holes. The club officials have the blue prints on hand for the newly projected changes which will make the Odessa course the best in West Texas.

While the membership drive was limited in both number of applicants and as to time, it is said the directors have enough applications on hand to assure a majority before the middle of the week. One thing appears eminent, that is that the movement will in all probability be a very successful one.
